A.I.D.I.I.
The Italian Association of Industrial Hygienists (AIDII) is a non-profit scientific organization founded in 1969. The headquarters are located in Milan, Italy.

Members associated are 1,700

AIDII is member of ENSHPO and IOHA
Through the Institute for the Certification of Industrial Hygienists, AIDII vouches for the skill and professionalism of all those who dedicate their efforts to improve the quality of work and life environments.
AIDII promotes the development, analysis, dissemination and spreading of Industrial Hygiene, Occupational Health and Safety, aiming at protecting health of workers and the environment inside and outside workplaces.

AIDII organizes congresses and scientific symposia, conventions, courses as well as training and in-depth seminars.
AIDII has a peripheral organizational structure, constituted by five inter-regional sections, operating at a territorial level:

- NORTH-WEST (Piedmont, Liguria, Aosta Valley),

- NORTH-EAST (Veneto, Friuli Venezia Giulia, Trentino Alto Adige),

- CENTRE (Tuscany and Emilia-Romagna)

- LAMUS (Lazio, Abruzzo, Marche, Umbria and Sardinia),

- SOUTH (Campania, Basilicata, Molise, Apulia, Calabria and Sicily).
AIDII is headed by a Board of Directors, composed by 12 elected members and by a member by right (the Past-President). The Board stays in office for three years. Among the twelve elected members, the Board identifies its President, its Deputy President, its Secretary and its Treasurer.
